This is a subject near and dear to my heart. My son...I hate to keep saying that, you all pretty much know how I feel about my boy.

When he picked up a fly rod so many people offered to take him fishing. One was even a guide. The problem is, when they take you fishing they throw a few flies at you and they fish. He struggled and figured out allot from listening more to the guys that tied the flies then the ones that fished them. It did help but I can tell you it is worth catching a clinic or two from some experts. Lucky for my son he found the very best after probably a very embarrassing premier on his part. The bonus is that for the youngsters anyway they can also develop the ethics as well as the skills in doing what we all love, hooking up with some respected pros.

I could never thank all the people that helped my son. The list started out small and has grown amazingly and everyone in it is awesome. If anyone needs help, really all you need to do is ask. If you don't get the answer you need ask again. That's my advice and that is exactly what my son did. This is a great forum to ask anything. A great place to start and then go from there.
