

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Dry fly wings

Re: Dry fly wings

Author: : WildTigerTrout

Date: : 2014/3/3 11:04:59

URL:

Quote:

sandfly wrote:

A good tied Catskill type pattern should be able to drop from a foot above table and land upright 90% of the time. I use a gage for my dries when I tie those patterns. shows all the lengths to use for the hook size. Not all hooks are the same. most dries are based on the mustad 96840 dry fly hook for proportions.

I was in the area a while back and stopped for a few minutes at Sandfly's shop. I could'nt stay long but I bought that exact guage. It does come in handy. Good product.