Question: What do you think?

If you are fishing in a hole (assuming some measure of a crowd) and you have a hookup and move off to fight/land your fish should you assume you should have your "old" spot back?

I don't fish busy pools much but sometimes it may become unavoidable. Usually if I hook up a few times in a crowded productive spot I will move on. I think you should expect your "old" spot back but encourage some rotation of spots. Do you agree?
