

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Fishing Etiquette for Erie.

Re: Fishing Etiquette for Erie.

Author: : albatross

Date: : 2008/10/27 20:04:28

URL:

I agree that you should expect to be let back in and you should give that courtesy to your fellow anglers should they move off to fight a fish.

One caveat though, if you are one of those yahoos who thinks you need 6X tippet and you let the fish run 200 yards during the course of a 15 minute battle I might give you a bit of a hard time. The above rant assumes combat conditions with fish biting. I can see where someone might be forced to lighter tippets and longer battles with the low clear conditions we have had lately, but that is tolerable when no one is catching any.