

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Fishing Etiquette for Erie.

Re: Fishing Etiquette for Erie.

Author: : jaybo41

Date: : 2008/10/28 15:11:39

URL:

Don't get me wrong, I'm not trying to come off as an eliteist, Erie provided me a lot of fun for a lot of years. And, on occasion I still enjoy it. Reading your post Jack made me think of my first trip there and the years of making the journey 79 N to Erie. What a rush! There were times that I was so excited to go, I could hardly sleep the night before. It's a great experience and if you have the ability to go and do it, by all means, you should. Fly fishing for steel is the biggest rush of all. There's nothing like fighting fresh steel on a fly rod! I have not completely written it off all together. At the end of the day, all that really matters is that you enjoyed yourself on the stream.

On another note of chasing Steel...I was in a fly shop a few weeks back and was told that the NY tribbs are becoming more and more crowded as well. Back when I was going regularly, this was the "go to" place to find solitude. Apparently that's caught on with some others too. Have you guys fished any of the WNY Tribbs?