These problems sadden me. I knew it was a matter of time before invasive species found there way to central PA, but I kept hoping it wouldn't happen for a long time. The acid rain issue is one thing I haven't thought about for a long time. I know its an issue, and has been worse than it is now, but I don't pay much attention to it. It has always seemed that acid mine drainage was the real problem acid related problem for PA streams.
