Yes, I had a pair. You do a lot of small stream exploring and whatnot, I can't see these boots lasting you a season. If you don't use them on the rugged streams, maybe they'll serve you okay. I used mine on a lot of small streams. The seams just didn't last, I was constantly getting gravel and silt like no one's bidniz (part of that is the geology of Lancaster County, I realize, but my Beans don't have half the issues these boots had).

But hey. If you'r elooking for a long-hike type of wading boot and aren't your "go-to"boot, then they may serve you for that!
