So after some thought, I have decided to plan a 28 day road trip to fly fish in Montana, Idaho, Wyoming and maybe a quick stop in Colorado. I will be traveling from Pittsburgh, PA westward to West Yellowstone for the mid trip stop.

I plan on self guiding the waters but I might do a day here and there with a professional guide. I will be wading all the time unless I pick up an inflatable pontoon raft.

I'm currently trying to decide the best areas to entertain. Any help would be greatly appreciated.

I plan on taking I-80 out rock springs then cut up to West Yellowstone and as for the return trip I will be taking I-90 back. With that route I can stop by the northern part of Colorado, Then up through Wyoming, Idaho to West Yellowstone. Starting the return trip around day 16-17 will allow me to stop at places like Bozeman and Billings.

The only guaranteed stops will be Jackson Wyoming, West Yellowstone, Bozeman Montana.

Dates I have decided is last 2 weeks of August and first 2 weeks of September 2015.
