

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : monster trout.

Re: monster trout.

Author: : Brown71

Date: : 2014/4/15 10:54:33

URL:

A lot of these replies are sound information, lots of good advice. I am also like Night Stalker, my Dad and I do the majority of our fishing focusing on big trout.

The best I can tell you is simply go where the big ones are. You cant catch them if they aren't there. MANY waters hold browns over 5 pounds that is for sure.

I have gotten several large browns from Yough River and many more from a few local limestone streams, one that is very well known. The limestoner has given up 2 over 10 pounds in fact and many, many 5 plus.

Do you homework and I bet you will find what you are looking for. Also, always remember the truly big trout are most vulnerable ONE time of the year, and its not a hatch. Its the fall. The big boys leave their lairs looking for spawning water and streams that all year seem void of big fish suddenly have 20"+ fish seemingly all over.