Well, since I have been relegated to shorter, local trips, my fishing so far has been primarily for stocked fish. I was so hoping we would get a big rain event since the streams were just starting to drop and my favorite Southern Chester Co stream was due for stocking today and tomorrow. Anyway we really got blasted so sorry if anyone's plans for the next day or two were foiled. On a positive note, the fishing should be good for awhile in the Southeast, and with luck we'll continue to get rain this season; maybe an occasional long steady one for a change. Tight lines all!
