I know it's been discussed b4 but two years in and I still find this to be one of the more frustrating things. Fishing with nymphs you want it at the bottom. I've seen it written numerous times if "u aren't getting hung up every 5 or 6 drifts u ain't doing it right." Well I don't think I'm doing it right. Maybe I am using too lil weight and/or setting up my split shot incorrectly or my depth perception really sawx!

How do u gents make sure ur hitting bottom?

Is it all trial and error?

Any advise much appreciated.
