Thanks, I learned my lesson when I booked a camping trip to Poe Valley a few years ago. I was in a jolly mood on my way to the park until I came across a PCNR employee that the road access to the park from 322 was blocked off because they were working on the road. I had zero idea that all the roads leading to the park were gravel. Now, the road I eventually took to get to Poe was in great shape as far as gravel roads go, but from now on I'm doing my best to ask questions before I drive somewhere.
