

---

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : DIY Nipigon, Ontario

Re: DIY Nipigon, Ontario

Author: : geebee

Date: : 2014/4/30 12:24:22

URL:

Quote:

dryflyguy wrote:

Quote:

gulfgreyhound wrote:

I'd check to be sure you can diy? I believe you need a guide to fish in Canada. At least that was true on my last trip. GG

Not so.

There are a few provinces where that is true - and at that, I think it's only for certain watersheds. When I vacationed in the northeast area of Canada, I wanted to take a shot at some Atlantic salmon fishing. And one place I could legally go DIY was on the Margaree River in Nova Scotia

NS is a popular choice for Atlantics for that reason - in Quebec you need a Guide for Salmon, but not for trout. though in mixed streams all fishing requires a guide.

Due to the weather changes I have adapted my plans a little - ice out is usually the first week of April but predictions are for it to be mid May this year :

<http://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/thunder ... d-until-mid-may-1.2621643> which will mean my June 12 trip is right on the shoulder of the main Steelhead run this year...

so I'll be fishing for big brookies morning and late, and for steel during the day.