Yes of course Dave I couldn't agree with you more! My intentions are to provide the information you had stated just a moment ago. The whole nine yards. Flies that worked, hatches, stream conditions and so on. I don't plan on projecting what I caught or how big the fish were. I simply just want to provide some quick updates that are easy to check up on for the regulars at the LL and everyone else because I've looked everywhere online and can't find one person who does! I will do my best to write a summary/report once every month that'll help give people some good insight they'll be able to use to their advantage when they get there to fish.

Thanks, Mike Deutsch
