

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Need help casting

Re: Need help casting

Author: : mattofcarlisle

Date: : 2014/5/8 12:23:19

URL:

@springer1: I've been meaning to try one of those cheap Eagle claw rods. I really love decent, cheap rods - they allow me to have a really diverse collection of rods without blowing my budget. I could use it for letting my fiance or relatives learn to fly fish. They also seem like they be great for dry flies since they have a slower action. I'd have to decide between the 8' 5/6wt, or the 6'6" 3/4 wt...

The Eagle Claw Lack Eagle at Wally World casts surprisingly well - and at $22, it's a steal. You can't buy the reel seat and cork for $22. It does have a weird spinning type stripping guide, but again...$22. I have two set-ups as loaners and for friends who want to try fly fishing.