Good video. It breaks my heart a bit to see Joe needing help to wade. In my eyes he will always be that 50-something energetic, "go get em" instructor with a lust for life. Getting old sucks.

Agree.

On the bright side, it's great to see Joe still out on the water and still teaching FFing in his 80s. And he's still got that hunched over intensity that he's always had. Although he doesn't remember me, he taught me to nymph fish thirty years ago and I still use the tuck cast and other tips that he preached.

Go Joe!

Me too Dave! 1980 PSU... Indeed, it is still good to see him in his element for sure.
