Glad you guys enjoyed it. I had almost as much fun filming it as I would have fishing that place.

foxfire, I wish I could say it was a big stonefly nymph but as far as I can tell it was just a piece of algae or something. When I look at the original footage full-screen on my laptop (better resolution than youtube) I can't make out any legs or anything. And if you look closely, he spits it out at the very end, but then turns to chase it again as I'm lifting the camera from the water.

Also DC, I have a lot more videos coming. takes a while to find time to get them on youtube. uploading in HD takes forever.
