Jim, When I saw the bwo I felt relief for a larger bug and tried it. Of all the fish rising I found the five that wanted one, and I think the same for the 18's. There weren't a lot of them but enough to get a short burst of interest from some of them. A few were on the water and I had the flies to take advantage of an other wise fruitless (for me) situation. I think it's like one person walks up to a table of fruit and takes an apple, another takes a banana, and another an orange. If you know what I mean.
