Lotz of win in this thread wanted to thank again and bump it for newbies. So much info but I used some bits and pieces for my best day on VC in my 2 years of fishing

Since I posted this I've done nothing but small stream fishing so it's been dry's with success. This AM I hit VC ...

Think I'm getting the hang cause I had my best day ever @ VC. I started with dry's but went to zebra midge with success. More importantly I was @ the bottom by adjusting weight, noticed the 'ticking', concentrated on my indicator speed, etc, etc ... that said more work to be done cause all my action was in decent moving water ... in the still/quiet deep pools none.

Thought this was a worthwhile thread to bump for the other newbies to read and possibly bookmark.

Just think how many feesh you wooda caught with a strap and shoestrings and a fancy green fishin' shirt, Stag.

Nice!
