In general the fishing is slower in August then any other month, but if you're on a wild trout stream there will be fishing. IT won't be good during the heat of the day or during days with high bright sun. Look for days with partly cloudy skies and even days that are rainy.

Sept. can be the best fishing of the year.

Much of the fishing during those 2 months is dependent on flows and water temps, so carrying a stream thermometer is important.
