The materials kits aren't that great. I use a tool kit that I got from cabelas years ago, and found that it's usable. It's not great, but it gets the job done.

As far as materials, I'd buy them separately. Half of the stuff in the kits isn't even usable.

If you're going to take that path, I'd start another one of the "what stuff to buy" threads in fly tying forum. I did it years ago, and it helped me to build a decent kit.
