I don't know if it is normal, but any time you encounter a situation like this, you should call DEP or the Fish & Boat Commission and report it. It shouldn't be a normal situation and DEP should investigate it. It probably isn't too late to make the call, although they may not be able to observe the situation at this point, they can be on the lookout next time the rains bring the creek up.

Information on reporting incidents to DEP can be found by clicking here.
