

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : anybody ever fish the swatara?

Re: anybody ever fish the swatara?

Author: : Flyfisherman_PA

Date: : 2008/12/8 20:26:11

URL:

I had a nice day on Swatara about 3-4 months ago. Got tired of chasing half dead stocked trout, so I just headed to Swatara State Park and asked around. Finally found a decent place to park and actually had a otherwise great time, other than there wasn't any natives! Pretty fun fooling around with a hole filled with creek chubs chasing big grasshopper patterns. I know my father used to catch natives around there, so I'd like to visit it again.

Disappointed about the smallmouth action. Only brought a few to hand, and the rest were creek chubs and suckers.

As many of the mentioned I've heard there's some fairly good native brook trout within the park and also Trout Run. Gemiller I'll hit you up, maybe we can share a drift some time..

Talking to some joggers you can't access the park by vehicle? Park outside, and walk in?