

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : anybody ever fish the swatara?

Re: anybody ever fish the swatara?

Author: : gemiller

Date: : 2008/12/8 21:46:48

URL:

Sorry I missed this post before I messaged you back to answer some of your questions.

Well, its weird out there these days thanks to the government.

There are places to park "in the park" but not directly on the water anymore. They banned driving "Old State Road" which is the road that runs next to the stream due to teenagers partying back there and whatnot. They only open the road to scenic driving I believe one weekend a month(not positive on that because I don't bother) but there are some small parking lots on the north end of the park that have nice trails straight to the swatara.

Also right on 72 is the main parking at the new bridge. You can't miss it then you just have to make a short hike down the face to the stream.

I am really suprised you had a hard time with smallies, must have been the stretch you were on. The chubs are massively abundant there though, on some stretches it's a game of dodge the chubs to catch anything else. I've had quite a few days where every cast hooked a chub.