

---

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : waders

Re: waders

Author: : bigjohn58

Date: : 2007/2/24 22:17:14

URL:

I'd go with anything but Proline especially when buying a pair of boots for your waders. We've had a few pairs and my brother went through his last pair in 2 weeks before they started falling appart. If you get boots get orvis because you can always return them for a new pair if they fall appart. Now for waders everyone has their favorites (I like Cabelas) but whats more important is getting a pair that fits you correctly so you don't stretch the seems and YOU have to be careful and avoid jagged sticks, hooks, sharp rocks, etc (look where you are going before you just blaze a trail). If you take care of them any brand of waders will last you a few years.