Here's a conspiracy theory, manufacturers know that a total ban on felt is coming soon rather than later, and are holding back the manufacturing of other products so they can dump the felt soles on the public.

I couldn't find anything remotely resembling a decent boot that was non felt and had studs, except the crappy aqua stealth boots last spring when I was shopping for something other than felt.

The use of anything pourous is suspect for carrying the nasties that are invading our streams. Look for neoprene to go away soon too.
