Well, its weird out there these days thanks to the government.

There are places to park "in the park" but not directly on the water anymore. They banned driving "Old State Road" which is the road that runs next to the stream due to teenagers partying back there and whatnot. They only open the road to scenic driving I believe one weekend a month(not positive on that because I don't bother) but there are some small parking lots on the north end of the park that have nice trails straight to the swatara.

I just swung down by the north end of old state road yesterday and there is no gate and no signs. Somebody'd have to have a pretty big set to try to fine me for driving a road with no gate nor signs. On that note, it parallels the stream for like 4 miles, although about 2 of those miles are a good bit of bushwacking to get to the water.
