

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Lead

Re: Lead

Author: : CLSports

Date: : 2008/12/29 13:17:28

URL:

Jay,

Tungsten Putty works great. I used in on the SR this year and had very few snags. You need to keep it warm though. It gets very hard to work with if it is cold. Most of the snags I used to get were from the split shot. I would put it about 18"-24" above my 1st fly in a two fly rig. I mold the puddy into a torpedo shape to minimize snags, or I would just cover a few "b" shots with it in a conical shape. It works great and stays on the line even in frigid water.

Rob