

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : carp

Re: carp

Author: : jayL

Date: : 2008/12/30 19:00:58

URL:

I hooked one on a pheasant tail in the tully once. I was fishing my 4wt and was convinced that I had a world record brown on. Once I got a look at it, I realized what it was and tried to land it. I fought it for maybe 20 minutes before realizing that I'd have to wade back to the bank for any shot at it. It was too big for the net, and I didn't want to go in head first trying to wrestle with it.

It's the same reason Tim Murphy hates the tully, but you have a legit shot at hooking one there... even on a dry.