Considered it revived. You could probably create that using a Crease fly as the basis. I considered doing a Bob's Banger and drilling holes through to see if I could create bubble trails like some of the offshore trolling lures. May still have to give that a whirl.

If I were to use a preformed body, I'd have to hollow it out a bit with a dremel tool before drilling the hole in the top.

I was looking for some new popper ideas. I think I'll give that one a shot.
