You're welcome afish. 😊

I'm not sure when the PFBC started listing trout waters on it's website. It seems to me that its been about a decade and I'll readily admit that I consult this list myself so the cat's largely out of the bag with regards to internet info. I think some of the books we're talking about pre-date the internet age when info about specific, relatively unknown waters was harder to come by. In this day and age their impact is much less significant.
