I haven't tried dry flies on small mouth. I'm also not saying that they wouldn't work. I usually fish wooly buggers or strip streamers or nymphs when I fish mixed trout, small mouth and rock bass waters. I do have to say that small mouth and rock bass fishing are top on my list. I guilt my brother to go with me. He's a spin rod guy and I take my fly rod. I always have fun kicking his butt (Which doesn't happen often) even though he can cast my fly rod better than me, he can't fish it better. That all will change soon. Bought him a new reel for his fly rod for Christmas. I'm almost afraid to have it spooled with line, which I promised him I would do. I work at fishing well and he just fishes. Some people just are fishy. I think I'll take a lesson from him.
