Just a question. How many of you are part of any group that would like to see more youth FF programs? I know my son spends lots of time with the team USA program but still does programs for local TU and sporting group chapters. I know he will be doing a youth camp for the New York TU chapter on the Delaware the end of July, but he is one of many that are interested with sharing their love of fly fishing with others. Are there any groups interested on having young people share their skills with other young people? It's just my opinion that youth benefits better from youth to some point. I think they get a bit Overwhelmed in the adult world. It over whelms me too sometimes. Later with confidence after they out fish us we realize they are so very capable without us holding their hands. Anyway, I know that everyone is busy but if you have a youth group, I might find some older youths that are willing to spend some time with them. No promises but you just never know what can be accomplished.
