

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : carp

Re: carp

Author: : wgmiller

Date: : 2009/2/5 18:51:14

URL:

I always thought carp would hit just about anything - baitwise that is. Are they strong strikers based on scent? Being that they're also "bottom feeders", is it possible that a fly just isn't as effective since it has no scent? I'm just kind of surprised that carp are so picky when it comes to a fly. No doubt those in a trout stream have seen a lot of flies and other bait come their way...