

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : carp

Re: carp

Author: : jayL

Date: : 2009/2/5 22:26:09

URL:

When fishing globugs, I've had to frantically get my flies away from them before they took them.

A few times that I've targeted them, I had to sneak up like I was fishing for wild trout in August. They're weird fish.

Scent is definitely a help, but they don't hunt exclusively based on it. If that were the case, they'd mainly forage on dead stuff. They often eat relatively scentless bugs and plant matter.