

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Selecting a rod to build

Re: Selecting a rod to build

Author: : bigjohn58

Date: : 2007/3/7 20:02:42

URL:

Ok the price range of the GL3 is at the upper end of my price range with the kit but I think I can manage that price. What is the big difference between between the single foot and the double foot guides? Does the single foot really help with casting distance? I want this rod to be able to roll cast well with big nymphs and some streamers. I do a lot of roll casting fitting it in under trees and in a lot of areas where I don't have room for a back cast but I'd like the rod to be able to cast a good distance if I can but the roll casting heave stuff is my main goal. Do the Cabela's kits come with good instructions or are there some good sites here on the net and if so what are they?