
Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Monocacy looking good

Re: Monocacy looking good

Author: : salvelinusfontinalis

Date: : 2009/2/11 10:11:05

URL:

you know in all my years on this board i have finally come to the conclusion that flyfisherman feel the need to debate everything and analyze every little thing.

Is it Jack that prehap[s you are seeing that in this post and then are reading into what you expect to see. Yes i rolled my eyes. I have been flyfishing pa for 26 years now and can tell you the PFBC has let me and the resource down a heck of alot more than they have lifted us up. so as a conditioning yes i doubt thier motives.

what exactly can you include me into?

All im saying is i see alot of could be , may be in thier evidence. Be nice to know for once if it is harvest or habitat. Only one way to tell.....and that is a study. i see nothing wrong with that. Jack we will always continue to have these arguements until someone really studies it.

My point was not to get into a regs debate but rather say hey look at this stream on our side of the state. Something is going right.....EVGEN WITH THE CURRENT REGS.

Regaurdless, im tired of having to explain my opinion on here. from now on im posting once and done...take what you like from my post and leave the rest. You guys are just making me tired anymore.