Well my point is we got hammered with rain last week (Thursday/Friday am) and it may have put a slug of silt in the stream from that steep logging road down to the bridge. For the life of me I could not understand why there are no silt fences or protection around that bridge with that bare earth when I saw it.

If you see like scenarios at the bridge, I'd call the DEP.

Actually, Merle will be here next week and I will probably be up that way. I'll check it out too. We can compare notes.
