Only ever saw one and it was a big one. Last May at Stony Creek on the service trail less than a mile from the parking lot. My buddies girlfriend almost stepped on it along the side of the trail. It moved a little but didn't start rattling until I decided to lean in for a closer look. I never got closer than 7 or 8 feet from it and felt any closer was asking for trouble. I didn't know rattlers were supposed to get that big. I was worried how many people were walking on that trail with it there. A lady walking two Rottweilers came past and we walked back a ways with her because I was afraid her dogs would see it and go nuts, but it was gone, I think.
