Subject: : Gear Talk
Topic: : First Aid Kits
Re: First Aid Kits
Author: : JakesLeakyWaders
Date: : 2017/7/19 17:39:01
URL:

Here's one of the pouches I have for my backpack. It was originally a kit, its since been refilled and half depleted several times, mostly from me digging in it when I lose a lighter or couldn't find pain pain medicine, or bandaids. Its about half empty now, missing antiseptic, gauze, medical tape, allergy pills, waterproof matches, water tablets, small flashlight, knife.

It does have a pouch with thread, wire, fishing line, razors, safety pins, needles, fire starting sticks, candle, pencil & pad, bandages, compass, alcohol wipes, mirror, reflective blanket, and flourescent tape.

This thread kinda got me motivated to get my first aid and survival kits restocked.

When I was younger I would find myself miles from nowhere in new territory and losing daylight, probably several times in a season. I probably don't make it further than a mile or two from a road more than once or twice a year anymore, especially after dark. If I did I'd be accused of being at a bar somewhere.

Attach file:

2017-07-19 17.24.36.jpg (296.90 KB)