

Subject: : Stream Reports

Topic: : Tulpehocken Creek, Berks Co., 2/28/09

Re: Tulpehocken Creek, Berks Co., 2/28/09

Author: : albud1962

Date: : 2009/3/2 20:23:02

URL:

I spoke with the Fish warden on Sunday and I was mistaken. Supposedly they are studying to determine what the decline in the fishery could be. I saw a blue heron gobbling up a trout so I know that maybe one cause(the last couple of times I was there I saw multiple herons). I was fishing jigs and then flies. I caught a few on the jigs but nothing great until I switched to a bead head walts worm. The action was pretty good for about an hour then the fish turned off. These fish are most certainly doomed. Many were only a foot from shore and didn't seem to move even when I waded upstream.