Jack is right.

I fished a slew of small Class A streams last season many in somewhat urban areas. Excluding the "famous" creeks like Slate Run, etc. I saw ZERO other fishermen.

It is also directly proportional to the size of the stream too and I really think MOST fishermen who regularly harvest or take a somewhat less passionate attitude toward trout fishing have this fear of getting skunked when they pit their giant brain against the pea brain of a WILD trout, (or is it the other way around?).

In any case I just don't see the fishermen on the "regular non-famous" Class A streams to think that the list causes as much interest as being declared a Special Regulation Area which IMHO causes MAJOR additional pressure but at times is a necessary evil.
