

Subject: : Print, Video, Audio Discussions

Topic: : First trout fishing book?

Re: First trout fishing book?

Author: : wildtrout2

Date: : 2009/3/10 19:49:58

URL:

Quote:

pete41 wrote:

I know that Joe Brooks was an expert dry fly man

I used to watch him fish Armstrong Spring Creek near Livingston Mt.

He caught them as you would have expected him to.

However the pre-60s writers can mostly be taken with a grain of salt as far as nymph fishing-many threw a few lines in about the subject because it was expected-like wineries offering a full line of whites and reds even though one grape is their prime one.

He also loved fishing for Steelhead on the Babine River in BC using a "shooting basket" for his line. He was very well traveled for that time. He loved going to Argentina for big brown trout as well. As a kid, I always wanted to fish where ever he did.