

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Monocacy looking good

Re: Monocacy looking good

Author: : tabasco_joe

Date: : 2009/3/17 18:56:38

URL:

Quote:

gfen wrote:

I fish these waters on a regular basis, both the park area and the area around Bridalpath Rd in both directions, up to Macada and down towards to licks Mill.

I've never, once, seen anyone creel a fish in the Bridalpath area. I've also never seen anyone actually take anything in the broad, flat area just above the licks Mill park. I rarely see anyone up there at all, except as they park their cars and walk down to the stocked section because everyone knows that they don't stock above the falls.

Clearly I'm not capable of being everywhere at once, but I've spent plenty of time over the last 23 years in the park, and again, I've never seen anyone seriously fishing above the falls, not once. And this includes the bulk of the time when I was young, naive, and happy to catch anything that swam and wouldn't have questioned trying to pick something off from up there.

a

I'm sure you get on there more than I but I have seen fish creeled above the falls in the large flat. And they were not larger than 12 inches, more like 6.