I agree that the small caddis were probably not Grannoms. But I have a problem with Nymphingmaniac's statements:

"Those are not grannoms. They are sedges."

The word sedge, in this usage, is a common name for members of the order Trichoptera. In other words a synonym of "caddis". So the statements are the equivalent of:

"Those are not german shepards. They are dogs."

Perhaps the caddis in question were Chimarra.

Oops, I now see that afish beat me to the id.
