Sal,

Interesting post. I'll admit I don't fish much in Lancaster Co and so don't know the waters there well but a quarry stocked with brookies is neat. Do you know if the fish hold over thru the summer? My guess would be that, if they do, they hang deep and would be tough on flies but, if so, there could be some real trophies in there. The concept of stocking cold water quarries with trout I think holds a lot of promise although some wouldn't be suitable for safety reasons.
