

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Line wt debate

Re: Line wt debate

Author: : pcray1231

Date: : 2009/3/23 9:17:41

URL:

5 wt, hands down. I have 5 rods, and 4 of them are 5 wts, the other is a 7 wt. They do vary a lot in action and especially length though. Its length that gets ya and makes it hard to just use one rod.

Even my brookie stream rod is a 5 wt, in fact I'd like a short 6 for a lot of those streams. The only place the 3's and 4's are nice, IMO, is throwing tiny flies on the medium sized streams, especially the limestoners like the Letort. I like some punch on the brushy mountain streams, need tight loops to get through the brush.