My LL Bean waist highs are getting beyond repair, so I went to order another pair and they've been discontinued. Can anyone recommend other waist highs that you've been happy with?

You may want to consider trying convertible type waders. I've been wading with them for quite a while now and have been very happy with them. What I like most is they have suspenders and not just a belt to hold them up. Most of the time I wear them as waist-highs, but converting them to chest-highs when needed has been handy.
