What David said, any time the fish are rising is the ideal time for dry flies. Lots of good suggestions and opinions mentioned. Out of curiosity, did you happen to be using fluro or mono? I know lots of members prefer or advocate mono, I happen to prefer fluro. I've found that when more stealth tactics are required, fluro has helped my cause in combination of the other suggestions made so I'm curious as to what kind of leader you were using.
