Dear Wulff-Man,

I'm not bashing the brookie either, I'm just responding to Chaz's post on another message board recommending that the Fish Commission remove brown trout from our large limestone streams in favor of restoring brook trout.

I say go for it, once we remove all the people and buildings and industry and mines and roads and bridges and cut down all the hardwood trees and replant Hemlocks and White Pines and give everything 300 years to re-establish. It is a no-brainer!

Of course there would be no one left to fish for those fish except for Indians fishing for subsistence but what difference does that make?

Regards,
Tim Murphy 😊
